HOME BUREAU

Lomontville The Lomontville Home Bureau will conduct a regular business meeting Thursday, May 26, at 1 p. m. at Community Hall in Lomontville. Plans will be made for the June picnic, refreshments and a social hour will conclude the meeting.

Annual Meeting

Twenty-two women represented the Ulster County Home Bureau at the annual meeting of the Eastern District Federation of Home Bureaus in Schenectady last week. Mrs. Frank Coy, member of the executive committee, was county delegate. She illustrated her talk on "Kitchen Carpentry" and "Hooked Mats and Rugs" on two popular county projects, with articles made by county women. There were various kinds of spice racks, step shelves and others made from orange crates and apple boxes. Gaily painted and decorated they were attractive as well as practical additions for any kitchen whether owned or rented. The hooked mats and rugs were designed by the women who made them; cast off woolen articles of clothing were used in the rugs which meant that the rugs were kept to a minimum. Mrs. Coy reported that women who make articles for their kitchen cabinets or hooked mats and rugs found the projects satisfying and were proud of their achievements. Mrs. William Shopmeyer of Poughkeepsie, chairman of the district, provided at the two business sessions when reports of the last year's work were heard. Miss Frances Souder, state leader of Home Demonstration Agents, addressed the group relating her observations on the growth and development of extension teaching to the theme of the conference "Rich Thoughts Produce Rich Harvests." Miss Souder complimented the 87,000 members in the state for the thought they put into their program to achieve better home and community life. Mrs. Gershon Mount of Ardena made arrangements for the transportation by bus. Those who attended were: Mrs. Nellie Allheiser, Mrs. Edward Allheiser, Mrs. Frank Coy, Mrs. Frank Elliott, Mrs. Lillian Harcourt, Mrs. Ira Hyatt, Mrs. W. H. Leaves From Boyle's Notebook

By HIL BOYLE New York (AP)—More people take their own lives in a cold war than a hot war. This truth of history is emphasized by the death of the nation's first secretary of defense—James Forrestal. He is the third major statesman in the post-war world to kill himself. The others were John G. Winant, former ambassador to Britain, and Jan Masaryk of Czechoslovakia. Forrestal... Winant... Masaryk... why did they do it? It is always a ripple on the commonplace when men in high places destroy themselves. Why did they kill themselves? All were well-to-do, respected, and seemingly had much to live for. They were three men with three different philosophies of life. They all traveled different roads, but the roads ended up at the same blank wall. Forrestal was an investment banker and a realist. Masaryk was a cultured and cosmopolitan sophisticate. Winant was an idealist. But the realist, the sophisticate and the idealist all turned to suicide as the only way out of their problems. In the cases of Winant and Forrestal their deaths were officially blamed on overwork. Masaryk is thought to have killed himself when he realized he and his country were prisoners of a foreign power. And some believe, of course, that Masaryk didn't go out his castle window under his own power. They think he was pushed. Traditionally, statesmen and generals commit suicide for only one reason—to avoid disgrace or to escape punishment. This was as true in ancient Rome as it is in modern Germany and Japan. In many countries the conquered leader has chosen self-destruction rather than submit to capture. He hopes in this way to stay a hero in his people's eyes. So Brutus impaled himself on his sword. Adolf Hitler shot himself, or is supposed to have, and Tojo put a bullet where he thought his heart was—but it wasn't. An American rope finished Tojo. But Forrestal, Masaryk and

Motor Manners

By Emily Post (Author of "Etiquette," "Children Are People," etc.)

Mrs. Post's "Motor Manners" is made available to the readers of this newspaper by the National Highway Users Conference, as a public service. DIMMING LIGHTS Q. Why should one always dim headlights at night? A. Thoughtfulness of the comfort of others requires that one do so would cause painful annoyance to other drivers. State laws require the dimming of lights or the depressing of the "dipping beam" when meeting other cars at night on highways. Blinding another driver by a blaze of light is not only rude but dangerous and vicious.

Scouting a Lady

Q. Does courtesy require a gentleman to seat a lady first? A. The age-old custom of a gentleman opening the door and assisting a lady into a vehicle is still in vogue. The modern independence of woman does not forbid this courtesy. When the car is parked on a busy street or thoroughfare, no lady expects a gentleman to help her into the front seat first and then walk around the car into traffic and climb in behind the wheel from the street side. Therefore, a courteous driver will, after assisting his passengers into the rear seat, excuse himself and slip into the driver's seat from the curb side ahead of other front seat passengers.

As the plane glided toward a plowed field, it struck a large tree head-on and burst into flame.

Radar Pioneer Dies at Palo Alto

Palo Alto, Calif., May 24 (AP)—Dr. William W. Hansen, young scientist who pioneered the development of radar, died yesterday.

The professor of physics at Stanford University, died just before his 40th birthday. He had been ill for months. Death was attributed to chronic bronchitis after an attack of pneumonia.

As early as 1937 Dr. Hansen was working on the uses of radar for military purposes.

Scientists here considered Dr. Hansen a war casualty. He became ill while commuting, during the war, between Massachusetts Institute of Technology and his important military job in the Sperry Gyroscope Laboratory on Long Island. A subsequent trip to England for a conference on atomic particle accelerators aggravated his condition. He is survived by his widow, Betsy Ross Hansen, and his parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. G. Hansen of Fresno, Calif., where he was born.

Cooler Weather Covers Great Part Of Central Region

The dead from storms stood at 47 in Missouri, Indiana, Illinois, Pennsylvania and Kentucky. Maryland, Iowa, Tennessee, Texas and West Virginia assessed heavy property damage. The American Red Cross set aside $50,000 for relief of storm victims.

Cooler temperature in the early morning hours was Pembina, N. Dak., with 23, but elsewhere in the plains weather bureau recordings were in the neighborhood of 30. The cool wave passed Chicago and was headed east.

Both coasts were generally fair with seasonable temperatures. Showers were reported in Oklahoma, Illinois, Michigan and Indiana.

10 Hollywood Writers Sue Film Producers

Los Angeles, May 24 (AP)—Major film producers have been sued for $51,858,975 under the Sherman Anti-Trust Act by the so-called "unfriendly 10" Hollywood writers who refused to tell the House Un-American Activities Committee whether they were Communists. Robert W. Kenny, former California attorney general, filed the action yesterday against 10 movie studios and the Motion Picture Association of America. It is the latest in a series of lawsuits stemming from the suspended writers and directors' contention that their politics is their own business.

The complaint charges several major studios, film organizations and John Does with a conspiracy not to employ the 10. Plaintiffs are writers Lester Cole, John Howard Lawson, Albert Maltz, Edward Dmytryk, Ring Lardner, Jr., Adrian Scott, Alvah Bessie, Dalton Trumbo, Samuel Ornitz and Herbert Biberman. One of the writers, Cole, sued M.G.M. Studio last year for reinstatement under his contract and pay for the time he had been suspended. Federal Judge Leon Yankwich ruled in his favor, but the studio's appeal is still pending. A $17,000,000 state suit filed by the group 18 months ago under a common law conspiracy action, still is pending trial.

Accident Reveals Woman's Leap Won Her Cash Rewards

New York, May 24 (AP)—Mrs. Oksana Kasenkina's dramatic leap to freedom from the Soviet consulate here has won her not only political asylum—but a lot of cash as well.

The Russian ex-school teacher, who never had a great deal of money before, has netted $45,000 in less than a year through sale of her syndicated stories here and abroad, she revealed yesterday. She has paid off $10,000 medical expenses for the serious injuries suffered in her leap last August 21 and she has paid $2,050 for a 1948 sedan.

In Russia, she commented, people like her don't own cars.

Mrs. Kasenkina, 53, has been learning to drive the new car. A week-end accident in New Jersey, in which the auto was damaged, led to disclosure of her financial success.

Now living alone in a furnished apartment in Jackson Heights, Queens, she says she is not much worried about possible Red reprisals against her, but she has hired a private detective. The widowed ex-school teacher has written about her successful fight against forced return to Russia, and about conditions behind the Iron Curtain—all very distasteful to the Soviets.

She has received marriage proposals from far and wide, but thinks she is too old to marry again.

Miners Stay Away

Pittsburgh, May 24 (AP)—About 1,500 coal miners employed by the Jones and Laughlin Steel Corp. stayed away from the pits for the second day today, but a work stoppage of some 80 clerks and technical employees ended. Miners at the firm's Vesta No. 5 mine, Vestaburg, Washington county, were idle in a protest against the firm's adoption of Daylight Saving Time. Workers said they wanted shifts to return to Eastern Standard Time. Clerks at J. and L.'s Vesta No. 5 and Shannopin mines voted last night to return to work. A company spokesman said they stopped work in a dispute over use of office machines.

Bisgood of England. The score was two and one. The defeat of the 21-year-old Newington, Conn., girl was the biggest upset of the tournament. She was the favorite to succeed to the championship won last year by a fellow American, Louise Suggs, now turned professional. Her departure left one Yankee contender in the running, Miss Peggy Kirk of Findlay, Ohio, defeated Mrs. R. T. Peel in the third round, three and two.

Frigidaire Cuts Prices on Models

Dayton, O., May 24 (AP)—The second price reduction within 10 days on household refrigerators was announced last night by the Frigidaire Division of General Motors.

General Manager M. M. Roberts said immediate reductions of $5 to $10 were being made on four models. He did not specify which models were affected. The price cut coincides with a reduction of cost of living allowances to be paid to employees in June, July and August.

Roberts said the price cuts "again were formulated with the objective of passing along to consumers the savings resulting from both the downward adjustment of wage and salary payments and the lowered cost of certain material items."

Prices on thirteen Frigidaire models were cut $10 to $13 ten days ago.

Kerhonkson Man Hurt As Scaffold Collapses

Samuel Cohen, 27, was seriously injured Monday afternoon while doing construction work on his poultry farm on the Berne road, Kerhonkson.

After first aid treatment by Dr. A. M. Feldshuh in Kerhonkson, Cohen was brought by a Humiston ambulance to the Kingston Hospital at 5:40 p. m. His condition was reported as "serious" by hospital authorities today.

It was learned from neighbors and ambulance service men that Cohen had been working on a scaffolding, laying concrete blocks. Apparently the scaffolding collapsed and several of the blocks fell on top of him, according to the reports which were available.

Three Are Executed

Prague, Czechoslovakia, May 24 (AP)—Three men convicted last week of spying and treason were executed today, the government announced. The men were retired Lieut. Josef Hruska, Karel Bacilek and Boris Kovaricek. They had been charged with forming illegal groups in February 1948 and of collecting weapons and passing information to "foreign agents in the western zone of Germany." They were convicted in the same trial which resulted in a sentence of life imprisonment for Gen. Karel Kutlvas, hero of the Prague uprising against the Germans in 1945.

Tribute Is Paid

New York, May 24 (AP)—Brazilian President Eurico Gaspar Dutra last night received the gold insignia of the Pan-American Society of the United States. The presentation, made at a dinner at the Waldorf-Astoria Hotel, ended a day of tribute to which President Dutra was honored by New York city. President Dutra, who was welcomed yesterday by Mayor William O'Dwyer and received an honorary doctor of laws degree from Fordham University, was feted by 850 persons at the dinner. It was sponsored jointly by the Pan-American Society, the United States and the American Brazilian Association.

PEARL: COME HOME

It was all my fault, Pearl. I admit I was surly and grumpy. No wonder that even the kids were scared of me. But everything's better now. I've found out that constipation caused by lack of bulk in my diet can be licked! Believe me, I advise others who suffer the same way to do what I did: just eat a bowlful of KELLOGG'S ALL-BRAN every day and drink plenty of water. They say it's America's most famous laxative cereal—believe me, it sure gets my vote. Or make it up into muffins—they taste grand too... Come home, dear, and find a brand new man waiting for you. That's me—your ever-lovin' husband, JOE.

GENERAL CLAY RATES THANKS

A tired little man with a soft voice stood before President Truman the other day to receive a decoration for services "of supreme value to his country and humanity."

He was Gen. Lucius D. Clay, retiring military governor of Germany. He had come home after long war duty and four years with the occupation forces, the last two as commander.

General Clay fully merits the President's tribute, the high praise he won from Secretary of Defense Johnson and the ovation Congress gave him. He rates a ringing "well done" from all of us.

For this frail man with the piercing eyes and iron will has been the key figure in Berlin, the hottest spot in our cold war with Russia.

It has not been a relaxing assignment. The general has had to worry about the Russians, the Germans, the French, the British, his own Army superiors and the American civilian authorities. With or without guidance from home, he has had to steer his way through crisis after crisis.

The tense months of the Berlin blockade were of course his biggest test. When Russian fighter planes buzzed our airlift transports, Clay brushed them aside like pesky mosquitoes. When Soviet soldiers inched forward into American sectors of the divided city, the general ordered G. I. chests to thrust forward just enough, but no more than needed, to relax the lost territory.

The lifting of the blockade is a victory for the West, and General Clay is the symbol of that triumph. But he represents more. He played an important role in spurring Western Germany's economic recovery and its recent creation of a new democratic constitution.

No one expects an occupation general to win a popularity contest among the people of an occupied country. To many Germans Clay undoubtedly personified the victorious enemy. But to a surprising number he appeared to stand for some sort of vaguely defined new hope. Thus it is no great shock to learn the Germans are naming the street where he lived "General Lucius D. Clay Strasse."

Trained correspondents say the French regarded Clay as too imperious, as a man who didn't understand their history and their undying fears of a revived Germany.

The general firmly believes an economically strong Germany drawn into the western web of nations is vital to future peace. He does not condone her past errors. But he is afraid that if we do not pull her into our orbit, the Russians will attract Germany eastward.

We can only guess what the Russians think of Clay, but it must be plenty. They provoked him endlessly, but they never stirred him to rash action. He presented them with an unyielding front, a stern resolve not to abandon Berlin and not to be goaded into acts of war. At last, it was the Russians who yielded—to us and General Clay.

That yielding was the signal for the weary general to seek his rest. He's home now, and all he wants is a bit of catfishing in his native Georgia. We Americans can say gratefully: "Thanks for everything, general. And good fishing!"

DEFINING FREEDOM

What is freedom of speech, and what are its limits? To ask that question is to renew an endless debate. A general rule often quoted is that the freedom of an individual ends where the freedom of society begins. But who is able faultlessly to draw a line where the liberties of one person begin to infringe on the liberties of those around him? The Supreme Court is not able to draw it. The question of how far an individual's freedom may go is one which constantly divides the Court. The split was five to four in the recent ruling on the Terminiello case in Chicago, which was a national sensation in 1946. Arthur Terminiello made a speech in Chicago which was followed by violent disorders. Chicago police said his speech was inflammatory, and arrested him for disorderly conduct. He was convicted, but carried the case to the Supreme Court. The Court has now ruled that the conviction violated the constitutional guarantee of free speech, but four members dissented sharply, declaring that the freedom of speech depends on laws to maintain order.

'These Days'

By GEORGE E. SOKOLSKY

A WEEPING TAXPAYER

It is not often that a columnist gets a windfall, but that has happened to me. William J. Dunsmore has sent a letter to every senator and he also sent me a copy and I am giving it to you for free, admitting without reservation that I could not have done better. Mr. Dunsmore is the father of nine children. He pays $15,000 in taxes a year and sends three children to college. Sounds like a wholesome citizen. So here is the letter he sent along:

"In reply to your request to send a check, I wish to inform you that the present condition of my bank account makes it almost impossible. My shattered financial condition is due to federal laws, state laws, county laws, city laws, corporation laws, liquor laws, mother-in-laws, brother-in-laws, sister-in-laws, and outlaws.

"Through these laws I am expected to pay a business tax, amusement tax, head tax, school tax, gas tax, light tax, sales tax, liquor tax, carpet tax, income tax, food tax, furniture tax, and excise tax. Even my brains are taxed. I am required to get a business license, car license, hunting and fishing license, truck license, not to mention a marriage license and dog license.

"I am also required to contribute to every society and organization which the genius of man is capable of bringing to life, to women's relief, the unemployment relief and the gold digger's relief. Also to every hospital and charitable organization in the city, including the Red Cross, the Black Cross, the Purple Cross and the Double Cross.

"For my own safety I am required to carry life insurance, property insurance, liability insurance, burglar insurance, accident insurance, business insurance, earthquake insurance, tornado insurance, unemployment insurance, old age and fire insurance.

"My business is so governed that it is no easy matter for me to find out who owns it. I am inspected, expected, disrespected, rejected, defected, examined, re-examined, informed, required, summoned, fined, commanded, and compelled until I provide an inexhaustible supply of money for every known need of the human race.

"Simply because I refuse to donate to something or other I am boycotted, talked about, lied about, held up, held down, and robbed until I am almost ruined.

"The only reason I am clinging to life at all is to see what the Hell is coming next."

Now, the writer of this letter has nothing on the rest of us. Last year, after I paid Mr. Truman his share and Mr. Dewey his share, I luckily came out even. Mr. Dunsmore is in the insurance business, which is still a popular enterprise. Mine is an ephemeral enterprise depending upon how few mistakes I am found making. The other day an editor in Texas caught me at fault in taste. Fortunately for me, no one else raised the question. Then, on the day I have to worry about sportsmen and all sorts of troubles. Also, I might slip on a banana peel and not be able to work for six months. If I cannot save in the year of my highest earnings, what will happen when the earnings diminish?

But then I raise a silly question. Why save? In fact, it is selfish to save. It represents a bourgeois outlook on life. All I need to do is pay Social Security and get an old-age pension. Sit around and wait for it to come. Do as little as I can. Save my health and leave it to the Secretary of Welfare, when such comes into existence.

Of course, maybe it is wrong to work for a living. Maybe one should only have the public good in mind and let the officials of the government determine what is the public good. They ought to know because they are public officials. I heard a social scientist say he believed in economy, by which he meant "Don't be penny wise and pound foolish." His idea was to spend as much as you could and that is economy. I listened to him for about half an hour and am not surprised that my eight-year-old says: "What's money, anyhow?" That Body of Yours

RICE DIET FOR HIGH BLOOD PRESSURE

We are hearing and reading much about the rice diet to reduce high blood pressure and there is no question but that it is helping many patients.

Some physicians state that cutting down on table salt and on foods would give the same results as the rice diet. There is, however, something about any "special" treatment for any ailment that appeals to many of us and the rice diet now is being tried by many physicians in treating high blood pressure.

In the "New England Journal of Medicine," Drs. A. W. Contant and Marian E. Rogers report a six-month study of a group of patients who were following the rice diet in their homes, not in the hospital. Of 35 patients, 34 cooperated and followed the diet faithfully and the report is based on these 34 cases.

Each patient received a copy of the rice diet, which contains 2,000 calories daily including about a dessert spoon of fat and about one ounce of protein derived from rice and fruit, and a very small quantity of salt. A patient takes an average of 8 to 10 ounces of rice daily. All fruit, juice, and vegetables are allowed with the exception of nuts, dates, avocados and any dried or canned fruit, to which substances other than white sugar have been added. Usually no water is given and the fluids taken into the body are a little less than a quart of fruit juice per day. Vitamins are added to the daily diet.

The diet gradually is eased by adding one egg once a week, half a cup of vegetables (except beans and peas)—cabbage, celery, asparagus—boiled without salt, a cup of tea or coffee once a day with sugar but without milk. If the blood pressure is becoming lower than 4 ounces of lean meat, fish or liver is given three times a week and the vegetables once a day. No salt or fat is ever added to the diet.

From the above it can be seen that cutting down on salt and salted foods and also on fats and eating more of the starch food, rice, is really not unlike the usual diet prescribed for high blood pressure. This, as you know, consists of avoiding preserved, canned and spiced meats and fish—shellfish, salmon, mackerel, pork, liver, etc.

The rice diet has been found to be a practical, inexpensive and simple method of treating high blood pressure.

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

By Drew Pearson

Washington—The Army almost slipped the famed Argentine medal for Maj. Gen. Harry Vaughan past the House Armed Services Committee the other day.

The diamond-studded order of San Martin, given by Dictator Peron, was handed to the State Department after it was presented to Vaughan at a gala Argentine reception.

But Vaughan now wants the right to wear his medal, and to that end his name was buried in a list of 87 army officers also decorated by foreign governments, all of whom must be O.K.'d by Congress. The list came before the House Armed Services Committee as a routine matter, and the hearing dragged on all morning with incident. Then, just before the vote, Oregon's alert young Congressman, Walter Norblad, spoiled Vaughan's name.

"Wait," he broke in, "his legislation would authorize Harry Vaughan to get the famous Argentine medal. I take it."

Lt. Col. Philip Hooper, who was presenting the Army's case, flushed like a little boy caught in a naughty act.

"It would," he admitted.

"I see the name," Norblad directed, "on page 2, line 5."

"That's correct," agreed Colonel Hooper, counting the lines.

"That," Norblad repeated, "is the Argentine medal. I take it."

Vinson's Advice
Chairman Carl Vinson of Georgia suddenly took more interest in the proceedings. He could see no rush, he said, in approving these medals.

"There is a time for everything," he philosophized. "Let us let this thing go by and take up something that is more urgent."

Louisiana's Congressman Overton Brooks, who introduced the bill for the Army, objected, since the committee had already approved 37 foreign decorations for Navy officers.

"Two wrongs don't make a right," cautioned Vinson. "We should hold these up a little while and let them rest. We don't have to be in too big a hurry to do this. We have other things to do."

The committee voted with Vinson and Norblad, so General

Vaughan will have to wait before he can wear his coveted bauble.

Note—it is significant that the army sent the House Armed Services Committee a detailed private list of officers, telling why each medal was awarded. In most cases, some act of heroism or patriotism was cited. But opposite Vaughan's name was written: "The Department of the Army has no information on this."

Ambassador Douglas's Secret Letter
History sometimes hinges on little things. If it had not been for a telephone call just a little more than six months ago, another man would be in Paris for the United States at the most important diplomatic conference since Potsdam.

That man is Lewis Douglas, ambassador to Great Britain, former head of Mutual Life Insurance, and inheritor of one of the great American copper fortunes. Few people know that only a phone call prevented his becoming secretary of state.

That phone call was placed by Louis Johnson, then chairman of the Truman Finance Committee and in desperate need of funds. Johnson called Douglas early in the morning in Paris where he was attending a United Nations meeting, got him out of bed and told him that the Democrats were scraping the bottom of the campaign barrel. They needed money and needed it badly. Truman had given Douglas the highest plum in the entire field of diplomacy, and now Truman needed help in return.

Ambassador Douglas listened sleepily, replied that he had no money to spare. Later, when he was fully awake and back in London, he thought it over again and wrote Johnson a letter. But he still had no money to spare.

Truman, at that time—according to all the polls—had no more chance of winning than Norman Thomas. But Douglas didn't put it on that ground. He put it on the ground of poverty and the fact that he was serving in a non-political job—probably the first time in history that the ambassadorship to London was classed as non-political.

After Truman ascended the world by winning in November, he looked around for a new secretary of state and, knowing nothing about the money-raising phases of the campaign, hit upon Douglas. In fact, he was about to appoint Douglas—when suddenly Louis Johnson walked into the White House with a copy of Douglas's letter in his pocket.

Truman read Douglas's plea of poverty. He knew Douglas's family had developed some of the wealthiest copper mines in Arizona. He knew Douglas, Artzy, was named for his grandfather. He knew Douglas had been chairman of the wealthy Mutual Life Insurance Company. He dropped the idea of making Douglas secretary of state.

The Fateful Letter
Douglas's letter, which changed one brief chapter in history, is still one of the most secret documents in the files of the Democratic committee, but its text follows:

"Dear Louis:
"It was early in the morning, Paris time, when your telephone call came through. I am afraid my talk with you did not appear to be particularly intelligent, for it ended me out of a sound sleep."

"I can well understand how great is your need for financial assistance, and I am writing to you to tell you quite candidly precisely what my position is.

"In the first place, I am a poor man and not a wealthy man. My tour of duty here has required me to go into my meager store of capital to a very substantial amount. I therefore do not have in my possession the funds with which I can make the sort of a contribution which I expect, you want. This is the unvarnished and untainted truth. Moreover, I never have made any substantial contribution to the party for the reasons which I have recited above.

"In the second place, I came to London not because I wanted to come for the title of ambassador, but because I had no other home for me no allurements whatsoever—it never has. It was understood that I would be completely nonpolitical.

"For this reason, even if I had the funds, it would be a mistake for me to make a contribution to the national committee."

Douglas went on to say that he would give a "modest contribution" to the Democratic state committee in Arizona—which, incidentally, did not arrive until the election was over.

All of which is why Lewis Douglas is not in Paris today as Secretary of State of the United States.

Truman Gives Feeling He Would Hold Off in T-H Repealer Until After It Has Been Political Issue in 1950

By DAVID LAWRENCE

Washington, May 24—President Truman gives the impression to members of Congress that he really doesn't want to see the Taft-Hartley Act repealed until sometime in 1951 after it has become a political issue in the congressional elections of 1950.

Unwilling to accept any bill except the administration measure which has been rejected by an overwhelming vote of the House of Representatives, the President is discouraging all talk of compromise, such as the one bill or anything else of that nature.

Curiously enough, there are people on the employer side who don't want this session of Congress to act either, so it looks on the surface as if the President and the archdefenders of the Taft-Hartley Act are on the same side.

When the Taft-Hartley Act was being considered in 1947, this correspondent criticized it as a hedgepodge but said it was better than the Wagner Act in that it attempted at least to protect the rights of both labor and management. This is a far cry, however, from accepting the Taft-Hartley law indefinitely as the right kind of labor-management legislation.

A substantial majority in both Houses want to substitute for the Taft-Hartley Act a new law that will clarify the rights of both management and unions and one that will reduce the area of dispute and litigation and encourage collective bargaining in good faith. Mr. Truman evidently doesn't wish to see any conciliatory attitude adopted or any bill drafted which would satisfy both sides. He insists on an extreme position and has thus frustrated the efforts of many administration Democrats who really want something done on labor-management legislation at this session.

The labor unions are in the position of wanting to follow their principal partisan, Mr. Truman, and yet some of their leaders fear that time may work against modification of the Taft-Hartley Act. The public isn't too much interested in remedial labor-management legislation in a period of strikes and work stoppages.

If business conditions do not improve, there will be a tendency anyway to let the Taft-Hartley Act stay on the statute books without change. To put it another way, the public demand for legislation will be lessened if unemployment increases. It will be recognized then that the high wage levels may have to be reduced and this will tend to work against the strategy of the labor-unions leaders.

The points of real difference between labor and management are not numerous. Compromise, or rather reconciliation of viewpoints, is possible.

Meanwhile, the President's tactics are causing considerable speculation. One report has it that he plans to woo the southern Democrats by giving them patronage rather than by holding it over them as a club or means of punishment. If any strategy with reference to patronage does work, it is this approach which would be effective as against a continuous controversy and series of strikes.

There are some administration leaders who think that a bill can be reported out of the House Labor Committee this summer. Others prefer to see the Senate take the initiative in working out a satisfactory bill and then press for action in the House. But if Mr. Truman tests it, he knows that it doesn't like it, there are enough Republicans opposed to any legislation at this session, plus the administration Democrats who are taking the "no compromise" position, to form a substantial bloc which can keep the Taft-Hartley Act from being repealed or even amended at this session.

Mr. Truman is no doubt thinking of the effective campaigning done by labor unions in the last election, and he may feel that the Taft-Hartley issue will serve as a rallying point again for labor-union activity and the use of labor-union funds in the campaign. Using it in this way, however, in working up a national issue for a congressional campaign. Mr. Truman hopes to break that precedent with the aid of the unions and get such a huge majority in 1950 as to sweep the Taft-Hartley Act off the statute books. As early as 1951, replacing it with the old Wagner Law.

The theory behind the tactics of delay is primarily political. It completely ignores the economic condition of the country, which would improve materially if labor-management relations were clarified so that business planning could proceed and price adjustments established on a firm basis. AS PEGLER SEES IT

By WESTBROOK PEGLER

I have letters from two policemen who have served in violent C. I. O. insurrections against the authority of elected government, and some other data which bears on the riotous past and riotous future plans of unions. Unlike the Ku Klux Klan which was the punching dummy of the Truman Civil Rights fake which has wasted so much time of the Democratic 51st Congress, the criminal unions are actually protégés of the National Administration. They intimidate many state and city governments. It would be conservative to say that the victims of union goons, killed and injured, have out-numbered victims of the modern and now defunct Klan, 100 to one. Yet Truman and the alien-minded investigators who put the so-called Civil Rights Program into his platform have demanded the full restoration of the grotesque Wagner act which conferred on unions a privilege to defy the power of government while they howled against rare lynchings in southern states.

All those who have been killed or injured by organized goons have been innocent persons. Invariably, victims of southern lynchings have been suspected of repulsive crimes. Not always have the local authorities, convinced that southern lynchings although it would be insincere to claim that they always did their best to prevent them. But there is a vital point in the fact that Truman party wanted a Federal Law to punish Southern communities but specifically exempted northern cities whose public officers feared or refused to protect life and property against union goons.

Howard W. Hoyt, the chief of police of Kalamazoo, writes to complain against "inferences of cowardice on the part of any of half-dozen officers who found themselves confronted with a mob of from 200 to 400 well-organized, determined and armed goons" during riots at a plant struck by the C.I.O. last winter. The union concerned here was the United Steel Workers, the home union of President Philip Murray.

The details of the vandalism and personal assaults on law-abiding citizens who tried to do to their jobs and of the conduct of the cops in the presence of the goons have already been presented here.

Chief Hoyt's policemen stood by, permitting all this, and even were afraid to prevent the criminals from burning a truck in their presence. An official report to Congress by Rep. Clare E. Hoffman, of the fourth Michigan district, who conducted hearings in Kalamazoo, said four of these policemen, armed and all sworn to enforce the law, finched and did nothing. One of the goons, in a group of about 10, advanced on the four armed cops and warned them not to try to use a fire hose. One cop started to walk after this goon and the goon turned around and stopped and looked at me standing there alone and started to mutter. So the cop put his hand on the butt of his gun but didn't draw it or shoot. He let the union criminal walk away.

Questions-Answers

Q—What is the historical significance of Woodlawn?
A—Woodlawn, near Mount Vernon, is the 127-acre estate George Washington gave to his adopted daughter, Nellie Custis, as a wedding present. The grounds are the historic George Mason farm, for which Washington drew some of the sketches, have been opened as a public shrine.

Q—Does it get colder when the moon is full?
A—It doesn't. Records show that cold weather is just as likely to occur when the moon is new as when it is full or in any other phase.

Q—Who was the first governor of Florida?
A—In 1818 Andrew Jackson defeated the raiding Seminole Indians, and followed them into Spanish Florida, capturing an important town. As an indirect result, the Spanish sold Florida to the United States and Jackson was made first governor.

Q—Can a peacock be a female?
A—Strictly speaking, only the male of the peafowl should be called a peacock. The female is properly called a peahen.

Q—Is natural rubber a plastic?
A—Yes. It is. Materials known as plastics may, under the influence of heat, be formed into a permanent shape. They consist of chain-like molecules called polymers, made up of a number of small units linked together. Both these statements are true of rubber.

Q—Two-thirds of the human body is water, according to medical reports. Some smart guy will have it incorporated some day and sell stock.

A will of his own helps a young man to succeed—almost as well as a will of his rich grandfather.

10 Clubs Ordered To Show Records

New York May 24 (AP)—Ten exclusive social and athletic clubs have been ordered to produce their records tomorrow in the city's investigation of alleged theatre scalping.

The clubs' records of ticket sales for Broadway shows and sporting events were subpoenaed yesterday by city investigation Commissioner John M. Murphy.

The commissioner said he called for the records after learning that at the request of members some clubs have procured tickets at prices above the legal rates from brokers.

Murphy subpoenaed records of the Harvard, Yale, Princeton, Columbia and University clubs, the Union League, New York Athletic Club, Downtown Athletic Club, River Club and the Racquet and Tennis Club. Most such clubs have obtained tickets for members.

Murphy, who charges that some speculators are charging as much as $60 a pair for tickets for Broadway hit shows, broadened his inquiry in other directions.

Irving Engel, box office treasurer of the Century Theatre, where the musical "Kiss Me, Kate" is playing, was questioned by a city investigator yesterday. A ticket broker, John Ahearn, was served with a summons from city license Commissioner Edward T. McCaffrey directing him to show cause at a hearing why his agency license should not be revoked.

The broker allegedly failed to maintain adequate records required by the state law governing ticket agencies. McCaffrey said Ahearn was unable to account for all tickets purchased for resale, particularly for the musical hit "South Pacific."

Costs Dip Expected

The U. S. House of Representatives has made a 15 per cent reduction in proposed appropriations for a group of public works projects, its judgment being that bids will be 15 per cent lower than those expected by the engineers when they prepared estimates last fall. Meanwhile, the California Department is said to have found that in general the bids it is receiving this year run 25 to 30 per cent under 1948 costs.

Pillow Cases

A pillow case that fits too tightly over the pillow is apt to wear out more quickly than one which slides on easily. Pillows stuffed into a too-tight case may be too firm under the head for comfort.

Jersey Dealers Ask Driscoll to Act in Milk Price War

Trenton, N. J., May 24 (AP)—New Jersey milk dealers have asked Governor Driscoll to intervene in the sprawling price war that sent milk prices plummeting three cents a quart yesterday.

The governor said his office may issue a statement on the milk situation in northern New Jersey today.

In a joint statement issued after a conference with Driscoll yesterday, the milk dealers said "the situation is so serious at the moment that immediate action by state authorities is imperative."

"They acted after the price of a quart of milk dropped three cents in all independent and chain stores throughout the north Jersey area."

Dealers said there is a milk surplus and a few distributors in northern New Jersey have been able to import out-of-state milk at lower prices than New Jersey farmers are able to produce it at this time.

Milk was sold in retail stores yesterday for 13 and in some cases as low as 17 cents a quart, an average drop of three cents.

The reduction affects such by-products as buttermilk and chocolate milk, but does not affect the price of cream or butters.

May Marry in July

Las Vegas, Nev., May 24 (AP)—Nora Eddington Flynn and crooner Dick Haymes will be married in Santa Barbara, Calif., probably early in July. Mrs. Flynn announced this last night, saying she doesn't know on what grounds she will ask for her divorce from Earl Flynn, but that it probably will be mental cruelty.

Hero's Funeral

day by Forrestal's attending psychiatrist, Navy Captain George Raines, indicated that Forrestal knew he was ill when he left office March 28—a few days ahead of schedule. Four days later from his home in Hobe Sound, Fla., he asked a close friend, Ferdinand Eberstadt, to fly down from New York and bring a psychiatrist.

This Eberstadt did. With him was Dr. William C. Menninger of the Menninger Clinic, Topeka, Kan., wartime neuropsychiatric consultant to the army surgeon general and now president of the American Psychiatric Association.

Raines, apparently at the time of his suicide the night before, indicated that during his treatment in the naval hospital, Forrestal frankly discussed his feelings of hopelessness and possible suicide.

Forrestal was housed in a room in the hospital tower. Special heavy screens were placed on his window over him.

Menninger inspected the facilities provided and approved of them and the course of treatment.

While Raines assumed responsibility for the outcome of treatment, he consulted with Menninger and found him in accord with the therapeutic steps being taken.

As is usual in such cases, Forrestal's come-back was not steadily upward, "but gradually upward in a wave-line advance," Raines said.

But by May 14, Forrestal had improved to such an extent that Raines felt daily interviews were not essential. He also felt that he could make plans to leave Washington about May 18 to attend a psychiatric meeting in Montreal.

He was there when he got word of the suicide and pushed back.

It was Raines' opinion then that Forrestal was nearing the end of his illness and that the next 30 days would have seen him ready to leave the hospital.

"Psychiatrically, it is my opinion that Mr. Forrestal was seized with a sudden fit of despondency in the evening and early morning of May 22. This is extremely common in all depressions of the severity of which he suffered," Raines said in his statement.

The hospital log shows that checks by attendants were made at five-minute intervals. It was between checks that Forrestal unlatched a kitchen screen of a nearby diet kitchen and jumped.

"The navy has not and does not subscribe to the view that psychiatric patients should be thrown in a dungeon," Raines said. "It is our belief that calculated risks of therapy must be accepted for the practice of modern psychiatry."

Postoffice Bill Is in Committee

Washington, May 24 (AP)—A Senate-House committee put finishing touches today on a bill looking toward a new postoffice—or the "equivalent"—in each of the 435 congressional districts.

The bill breezed through the House late yesterday with only scattered opposition from lawmakers who turned it a "boondoggling" plan.

It authorizes acquisition of sites and advance planning on federal building projects, and a $30,000,000 program of repair and renovation for present buildings.

Passed by the Senate in March, the bill's approval by the House sent it to a committee of senators and representatives to have minor differences ironed out.

The House authorized appropriation of $40,000,000 for selection of sites by the federal works administrator and the postmaster general—one to each congressional district.

It also authorized appropriation of $30,000,000 for the renovation program, $10,000,000 of which would be available at once and the rest over a three year program. No repair project could cost more than $25,000.

In specifying that each congressman get a new postoffice for his district, the House declared that this project "be the equivalent" should be in addition to any projects already authorized and selected.

The bill simply authorizes acquisition of sites and drawing of plans. It does not authorize any construction, although this is contemplated in the future.

Chairman Whittington (D-Miss.) of the House Public Works Committee said today construction "would be delayed until a more propitious time."

"The primary purpose of this bill," he said, "is to place on the shelf a list of public projects to take care of unemployment."

Rep. Wadsworth (R-N. Y.) sought to knock out the provision of buildings among the congressional districts, and quality them only on need. He was voted down 65 to 23.

As Pegler Sees It

against eleven of the top local, area and international union leaders of the United Steel Workers.

"There seems to be little doubt but what convictions will be had on most counts which can bring sentences of from five to 55 years each. Is this not closer to the American way of getting justice done than, as you recommended, 'Shoot to kill'?"

Mr. Hoyt then reminds me that in Michigan human life is held so precious that capital punishment has repeatedly been rejected.

"You will find," he adds, "that police officers usually reflect in their actions the dispositions of the communities they serve. Kalamazoo is a peaceful, law-abiding community."

Here then, is a cop with abundant authority in law to use sufficient force to put down violence, trying to excuse the flagrant failure of his department on the ground that the people of Kalamazoo, somehow, had expressed a preference for anarchy by armed strangers imported from the outside for the specific purpose of terrorizing their town and their local government. On the same theory, a cop would refrain from intruding on a criminal caught in the act of rape, murder or highway robbery. He would let him get away with it and then tell it to a grand jury. His attitude is reminiscent of that of the English civilian who caught his wife in adultery with a Black-headed "Fed up, I am," he said, "I shall report him to his commanding officer."

My other letter comes from Captain James L. Mooney, retired, of the Chicago police department, who commanded the detail at the Communist revolution at the Inland Steel Company's plant in South Chicago. The laundry procession of unexcused and all Communists have referred to this valiant stand of a thin line of uniformed cops as the "Memorial Day massacre." But it was there that government came to a stand against howling anarchy in Chicago and established a precedent that has been respected ever since.

"It is heartening," Captain Mooney writes, "to read your attacks on Communism and to know that you reach so many Americans who might otherwise remain ignorant of the Red menace. The incident of Memorial Day 1937 shows where I stand. Everything you said is the absolute truth. My men and I did our best that day to prove that there is no place in our country for individuals who are trying to overthrow our American government."

Not one of the goons killed that day ever had worked in the plant. There was no strike. It was a Communist revolution.

Now we find in the congressional record a picture of Captain Caesar Scavarda, of the Michigan state police, warning the president of a struck plant under siege by violent pickets not to "start anything." We find another picture of the same man, together escorting a sight young woman, torn and disheveled, through a mob of goons and the note that he made no arrests "although assault and battery occurred in his presence."

And, summing up the testimony as to law enforcement in still another insurrection by the C.I.O. at Jackson, Mich., Mr. Hoffman writes, "The hearings show that Henry W. Bullock, the chief of police, was chased down the street half a block by the pickets. He evidently preferred to run rather than make any attempt to exert his authority. The chief is a big man, over six feet and over 200 pounds, in weight."

Charged With Murder

Paris, May 24 (AP)—Private Fred Edelbaum, 20-year-old American soldier, was charged today with the murder of Elizabeth Borik, Hungarian woman, in her Montmartre hotel on May 13. Edelbaum, a native of New York, was accused of strangling the woman. The trial is expected to start here on June 15, the military court being drawn from air force personnel. Edelbaum, a member of the air forces, band in, Weisbaden, came to Paris on furlough.

Perjury Charge Dropped

Washington, May 24 (AP)—The government has dropped its perjury charges against former Maj. Gen. Bennett E. Meyers. The wartime air force purchasing officer, now serving 15 months to five years for inducing another man to commit perjury, still faces an additional charge of income tax evasion. He will be eligible for parole from prison September 15.

Court Adjourns Out of Respect to Attorney Groves

May term of Ulster County Court was adjourned by Judge John M. Cashin Monday afternoon out of respect to the late Robert G. Groves, local attorney who died Friday afternoon.

In announcing adjournment until Wednesday at 10 a. m., Judge Cashin remarked:

"Let the record indicate that since the last term of court one of the most distinguished members of the Ulster County Bar died, Robert G. Groves, a personal friend of mine, a great lawyer, a good father and a good citizen. In his death the Bar of Ulster County suffers the loss of a distinguished brother and the citizens of the city of Kingston have lost an outstanding citizen."

During Monday's session, a civil action involving a contract was scheduled for trial but was delayed when the defendant, Mary Isasi of Ellenville, was unable to reach court until late afternoon.

The case was that of Benjamin Goldrich against Mary Isasi. Henry Temes, Woodridge attorney, appeared for Goldrich. Miss Isasi indicated she would appear in her own behalf, although she was urged by Judge Cashin to obtain a lawyer before the trial, which was rescheduled for Thursday morning at 10 o'clock.

An indictment against Horace E. Conway was dismissed by Judge Cashin with the consent of District Attorney Louis G. Bruhn after it was pointed out Conway is now a patient in a veterans hospital.

Other criminal cases were put over until June 1 at 10 a. m. These included cases involving the following persons:

Jesse Starr, Marletown, who was indicted by the grand jury under two indictments charging second degree rape, second degree assault and violation of Section 483 of the Penal Law.

Madrick Wallace, New York, charged by indictment with grand larceny, second degree; and,

Foster Post and Harold Post, Jr., Catskill brothers who were charged under various indictments with grand larceny, second degree, burglary third degree and unlawful entry.

Judge Cashin postponed until Wednesday, May 25, at 10 a. m. the sentencing of Henry Osterhoudt, who withdrew his innocent plea to an indictment charging assault, second degree, and pleaded guilty to assault, third degree. District Attorney Bruhn consented to the plea.

Trial of John and Albert Snyder on second degree assault charges was put over the term.

Two civil cases were placed on the calendar for trial Wednesday morning, May 25. They were Maude Bosworth against F. Trowbridge Loomis, and Russell T. Terns against Fannie T. Loomis, both contract cases.

The case of Donnaruma and Augustine, Inc., against Louis Modica, an issue to recover insurance premiums, was placed over the term.

Search Is Made For Man Accused Of Rape, Robbery

Winchester, Tenn., May 24 (AP)—A three-state search was on today for the Negro who raped and robbed a white woman taxi driver near here, Sheriff J. F. Farris said.

He said Franklin county residents were greatly aroused over the incident and were talking about "a lynching."

Mrs. Alf Tipps, 38, was beaten and left unconscious yesterday on a road about 20 miles from here, Farris said. The station wagon she used as a taxi was stolen. A small amount of money was also taken.

The sheriff said Mrs. Tipps, wife of a farmer, knew the Negro and agreed to "drive him down in the country to see his mother."

Mrs. Tipps said she was unconscious for only a short time. First blows left severe face wounds.

Sheriff Farris said no warrant has been issued in the case.

The Truth Tho' It Hurts

By FRANK THIPP

This is a discussion of the personal obligation of newspapermen to their readers.

It is inspired by the revelation that some 50 men connected with Illinois newspapers were found to be on the state payroll in capacities unknown to the taxpayers, and were paid nearly $400,000 for part time jobs of doubtful value to the state.

That some of them may have earned the money they received could not smother the suspicion that the politicians' aim was to influence the state's press in favor of the former Governor Green regime.

That so many newspapermen could have suddenly and simultaneously come to believe the arrangement compatible with the standards of their craft is unbelievable.

I could not retain my pride as a newspaperman if I did not raise my voice against this smear upon a profession which I know, after 48 years in it, to be predominantly trustworthy and incorruptible. No honest newspaperman can condone such smart practice, though his compassion may excuse those whose weakness brought this blot on the whole newspaper business.

THE BEST WAY newspapers can prove the basic honesty of the newspaper press is to condemn such deeds. Let the world observe that it was newspapermen and newspapermen who discovered and exposed the stench within their own ranks.

He would become a real newspaperman, worthy of the respect of his associates and of his readers, must assume obligations of forthrightness and objectivity in presentation of the news and in expression of his views. He must not yield to temptations which would influence his writing beyond the inescapable reactions of his normal, natural self. In no other way can his news treatment be trusted or his opinions be respected.

Readers do not expect supernatural things of newsmen. They know that those who write newspapers are subject to all of the human frailties; that they have the likes, dislikes and emotions common to all men.

Readers do have the right to expect that years of contact with all phases of life should give seasoned newsmen a perspective and balance which better enables them to project the news; or, in the capacity of editor, to evaluate it, discuss it and comment upon it.

READERS of editorials know that they are reading the opinions of a man or of a newspaper. The only reason they read them earnestly is because they assume that those who write them believe what they write. They don't have to agree with what they read but they must feel that the writer is sincere or they will have no regard for him or for his paper.

That is why a newspaperman must forego emoluments which might be accepted by many another who had only to clear his own conscience to accept it. Because the newspaperman's conscience must be, in a sense, his community's conscience. Unless he is willing to accept that responsibility to his readers he cannot be a true newspaperman—not far far.

I AM SORRY FOR the fellows who fall for the age old hokum out in Illinois. I know that many of them had little idea of the harm they were doing; that they are heartick about it and would undo it all. They could not have realized the stigma their act would put upon newsmen everywhere; but they should have known that it could not remain secret.

They should have known their own craft too well for that. Such dumbness of itself almost disqualifies them as newsmen. They should have known that so long as newspapers exist it will be newsmen who search out and uncover the dark and questionable.

They should have known that it will always be newspapermen who find out things people want to suppress—and that because one is a newsmen gives him no means to conceal his own dubious deeds.

For the newspaper will always tell everything and there will always be unfettered, uninfluenced newspapermen to learn the truth and tell it—even about a newspaper fellow, when one of them monkeys with the buzz saw of secret rackets against the public weal. (Copyright, 1949, General Features Corp.)

WHEN you get right down to it, there's just one way to satisfy yourself that this bold beauty is the car you've been yearning for.

So here's open invitation to come take its wheel—and see how neatly, invitingly, it seems to fit your hand.

Come put it up against the rough spots—and sample for yourself the ride that's recognized as smoother, even, than on highest-priced cars.

Come feel the 1 ft in this big Fireball valve-in-head, high-pressureing fuels into giving up their very best—come sample the super-smoothness of Dynaflo, the only drive in which "oil does it all."

Come see how smoothly big soft brakes stroke you down to even, jarless stops—come swing this one around twisting curves and see its freedom from the top-heavy "feel" so common elsewhere.

Come slam the solid doors, drum on its sturdy top, roll up the windows and notice the curtain of silence this one draws over outside noises.

And please come fresh from tests of other cars—their power, their ride, their steadiness, their room—because never does this one show up so well as under direct comparison.

MOVING THE PIANO

By James H. Winters

Contrary to general opinion, ordinary moving of a piano does not put it out of tune. The string tension is held by a very rigid metal plate or casting and the strings, which produce the tone, receive much more jarring when the instrument is played than when it is moved. So—you may move your piano out for cleaning or to a different location without fear of doing it any harm. When moving from one home to another it is wise to engage an experienced piano mover. When changing the location of a grand piano in a room always lift it up as you move it thus taking some of the strain off the legs.

A good piano is a good investment. Children cannot do justice to good instruction on a worn out instrument. Ask to see the new Wurlitzer model 825 with direct blow action and grand piano type fall board or the new model 630, they are really gorgeous.

ASKING SOMEONE TO POUR TEA

This is one of the strangest social occurrences that I have ever been told: "Shouldn't I have been asked ahead of time to pour tea at a shower party or else not at all? I had no experience; in fact I didn't know that I was supposed to stay at the tea-table the entire time. After I'd poured tea for a group, I got up and left and went over to join some friends. The hostess, who was not very well known to me, came after me and said, 'Don't you know you're supposed to stay there? There are people waiting for tea.' I felt embarrassed and immediately went back. Again I repeat, should I have been asked at the last minute? Or even at all, being almost a stranger?" As already noted, the behavior of your particular hostess is unimaginable. In the first place, the person invited to pour is generally a most intimate friend or member of the hostess's family. On occasion it may be a distinguished person who lends prestige to the tea table. But always such pourers are invited beforehand. It is true, however, that when one accepts, one should realize that one will be expected to preside at the tea table throughout the afternoon.

Birth Announcements of Twins
Dear Mrs. Post: Originally we intended to send birth announcements of our second child to a very few out-of-town friends. Now we've been told that very likely we'll have twins. This is very exciting news and I'm sure many of our friends would be interested to know about it. My husband feels that in the case of twins, people will feel obligated to send two presents, and that either we should send no announcements or else we should stipulate on them that there are to be no gifts. Would this last be unthinkable?
Answer: Since there is no obligation whatever to send a gift upon receiving an announcement of the birth of a child (or children), the suggestion that no gifts be sent is unnecessary.

This Is an Invitation
Dear Mrs. Post: Does the inclusion at the bottom of the church invitation of the wording "Reception at home of bride's parents immediately following" mean that we are invited to that too? No extra card is enclosed.
Answer: Very definitely it means you are invited to the reception.

"What shall I put in my hope chest?" This is a question asked by so many girls. Mrs. Post has written leaflet E-5, giving a list of linens and personal clothes. To obtain a copy, send five cents in coin and a stamped self-addressed envelope to her, care of The Kingston Daily Freeman, P. O. Box 99, Station C, New York 19, N. Y. Mrs. Post is sorry she cannot answer personal mail.

Cousin DAZZLE Says

I was raised on a farm in Vermont and one of my favorite memories is the smell of new mown hay. How I wish somebody would make a perfume with an odor like that.

Think how nice it would be when our houses are closed up tight for winter to fill each room with that wonderful clean fresh odor.

Of course, you can kill many household odors if you get Dazzle Bleach from your grocer and use it according to the directions on the label. Dazzle helps to keep bathrooms smelling fresh too.

If grease in your oven starts to burn and smell bad pour a little salt on the spots and leave the oven turned on. Pretty soon the smoke will stop and the air will clear.

Dazzle Bleach has many deodorizing uses in your kitchen. Sinks, drainboards, drains, dishcloths and mops all can be made to smell fresh and sweet by using Dazzle Bleach.

I think it was my old Sunday School teacher who said, "The sweetest perfume a woman can wear is the fragrance of a good disposition."

Do You Remember

by
SOPHIE MILLER

Just received the "Alexandria Gazette" from G. W. G. of Alexandria, Va., where they are celebrating their 200th anniversary as a town and the paper's 166th year of continuous daily service. G. W. G., who writes from time to time, was connected with the Ashokan Dam Reservoir when it was built and adds to my information of the gay ninety period in Ulster county. The same 40-page newspaper has as its outside cover exact copies of their paper dated February 5, 1784 and 1797, which reminds me somewhat of our famous "Ulster County Gazette" of 1800.

The paper covers the historic town in photos, ads, and features which were compiled by John D. Everhardt, Jr., whose exhaustive research through libraries, rare and out of print books, and the National Archives, as well as contacts with older residents unfolded many facts published in this edition about its cherished history. This paper claims to be the oldest continuous daily newspaper in the nation, reflecting through the years in files that go back to 1784, the steady change that has been taking place in the graphic arts.

From its historical data it has such items as: In 1758, at the age of 26, Washington was elected to the House of Burgesses and the following year he married the widow of Col. Daniel Parke Custis.

In 1759 a Town Hall was built in Market Square by lottery. It later became known as the "Assembly Hall" and was destined to play an important part in the affairs of the nation; Washington purchased two lots in town, one at Pitt and Prince streets, for 38 English pounds, and a second at Pitt and Cameron for 10 pounds and 10 shillings. He rented the first property and in 1790 was receiving $300 annually for it. In the latter place he built a town house, but when a Congressional committee considered building the United States Capitol on Shuter's Hill, Washington objected because he feared there would be criticism of him personally due to the fact that he owned property in town.

There is much information in this 50-cent special edition under such headings as "Mount Vernon." It even covers the old drug store of "Stabler, Leadbeater, Apothecary," to which following note by the president's wife was written: "Mrs. Washington desires Mr. Stabler to send by bearer a quart bottle of his best castor oil and a bill for it. Mt. Vernon, 1802." This drug store now belongs to the Landmark Society of Alexandria for its perpetual care and viewed by the thousands of visitors who come here annually. Such items as a nursing bottle that resembles a miniature boat, old spoons, a huge mortar and pestle, etc., still can be seen. Home of John Carlyle, which is nearly 200 years old and called "birthplace of Revolution" also has a feature story with pictures. The beginning of the telephone set up in a coal yard October 28, 1881, is described as a switchboard with a crude, home-made affair known as the call-wire system.

Morgenthau's to Get Bulk of Estate

New York, May 24 (AP)—Former Secretary of the Treasury Henry Morgenthau, Jr., and his three sisters will receive more than $1,400,000 from the estate of their father who died in 1946.

A tax appraisal filed yesterday showed a net estate of $1,458,855 after deductions from gross assets of $1,663,771 left by Morgenthau, Sr., when he died at the age of 90. The will bequeathed $5,000 to Jewish charities and the rest to the son and three daughters, Mrs. Alma M. Wiener and Mrs. Ruth M. Knight of New York city, and Mrs. Helen M. Fox of Peekskill, N. Y.

The elder Morgenthau formerly was American ambassador to Turkey and the author of two books of memoirs.

His will said his widow, Mrs. Josephine S. Morgenthau, already had been provided for adequately before the bequests.

Did you ever see a water polo game? The best I can say for it is that it is a clean sport, but in my opinion the referee with his whistle blowing spoils the game. The players are a healthy-looking group of fine boys.

After one of the games at the New York Athletic Club, I met Francis Gosling, of Hamilton, Bermuda, captain of the Bermuda team. Having visited Bermuda several times, it was interesting for me to learn that his great aunt at one time was president of the Bermuda Bridge Club.

I recall a few years ago that A. M. Sobel, one of the National Tournament directors, and I visited the Bermuda Bridge Club. We played a few rubbers, and this is a safety play that came up. It is one which I have written up before. Whenever I write about a safety play I would like you to copy it down. Keep it in your little book, as it should be memorized for future use.

I had what we call a two and one-half spade bid. I might have elected to bid two hearts, instead of two spades, but when Sobel bid three spades, I was glad to take him to four.

West opened the king of diamonds. East overtook it and led back the six of diamonds, which West won with the queen. He continued with the ten of diamonds. Now if Sobel were to make the mistake of trumping with the ten of spades, he would lose his contract. East would overruff with the jack of spades and declarer would still have a club trick to lose.

Sobel discarded the two of clubs from dummy on the ten of diamonds. Now he does not have to lose a club trick, as it can be trumped in dummy.

Pay Efforts Renewed
Washington, May 24 (AP)—Backers of a bill to boost the nation's military pay roll more than $400,000,000 a year renewed their efforts today to get their measure past a House economy bloc. Representative Kilday (D-Tex.) predicted the bill would be approved before nightfall, but conceded "we may have to take an amendment or two." The bill would raise pay for all the uniformed services by about 14 per cent. The hikes would range from almost 50 per cent for brigadier generals and rear admirals down to a little over three per cent for the next to lowest enlisted grade.

Vote Will Be Taken

Washington, May 24 (AP)—Chairman Connally (D-Tex.) said today the Senate Foreign Relations Committee will take a formal vote "sometime next week" on ratification of the North Atlantic Pact. There had been a general impression the committee planned to vote approval of the 12-nation alliance this week. "We'll wait until we get a complete report on the hearings before taking a vote," Connally told a reporter. The committee staff is working on the report, which is expected to give strong approval to ratification of the treaty.

Wiltwycks Blank Staubles 4-0 On Bill Newkirk's Three Hitter

Rival Hurlers Fan Seventeen Batters

Bill Newkirk pitched and batted Wiltwyck Motors to their second straight triumph in the City Baseball League yesterday, a 4-0 decision over Stauble's Bakery at the Athletic Field.

Newkirk gave a solid performance as the Motormen became the first club to notch two victories. He gave up only three snafos, struck out nine and batted in three of his club's four runs with a pair of singles.

Ed McCormick, the New Palz slinger with the hair for strikeouts, was almost as good, permitting four blows and striking out eight. Bobbles by his teammates figured in both Wiltwyck rallies in the second and seventh innings.

Wiltwyck's moved ahead 2-0 in the second when Newkirk singled home Munson who had walked and Chris Lay who was safe on George Schirlick's miscue.

The Motormen's seventh inning harvest was a bit more complicated. Lay started it with a walk. McCormick batted for Cushman and was hit by a pitched ball, then gave way to a pinch runner, McElrath. Newkirk's second hit scored Lay and McElrath crossed the plate on Lay's miscue.

MAJOR LEAGUE ROUNDUP

By The Associated Press

By JOE REICHLER

Undoubtedly two of the greatest "money players" in baseball today are Vern Stephens of the Boston Red Sox and Tommy Henrich of the New York Yankees.

They may not compare to Ted Williams in sheer power, or to Stan Musial in all-around brilliance but, in the clutch, they're in a class by themselves.

Stephens is hitting only around .270, but he leads the majors in home runs and runs batted in. Henrich, whose nine-year batting average is only .282, gets most of his hits when they count. He's hitting .320 now, is second in home runs and up among the leaders in runs batted in.

Game Wreckers
Each has been responsible for a half a dozen victories for his club. Stephens has 11 home runs and four of them broke up ball games. Henrich has eight round trippers and half of those decided games. Three times this year Stephens batted in five runs in a game.

Both Stephens and Henrich hit homers yesterday to help their teams win. Vern cracked his 11th into the right field bullpen with Ted Williams on base to pave the way for Boston's 4-0 triumph over Detroit. It came in the third inning with two out.

Henrich's blast came in the first inning, with two mates aboard to enable the Yankees to overcome a 2-0 deficit. The Yankees went on from there to win over the St. Louis Browns, 10-3.

Braves Take Lead
The Boston Braves took undisputed possession of first place in the National League by defeating the Cubs in Chicago, 11-4. It was the only game in the National League. The victory opened up a half game spread between the Braves and the runner-up New York Giants.

Vern Bickford allowed 10 hits but went all the way for the Braves to register his sixth victory against two defeats. Marv Rickert paced the Braves at bat with a home run, single and double and drove in five runs. Walt Duhiel was the loser.

With President Bill Veeck looking on, the World Champion Cleveland Indians broke out of a losing slump to defeat the Athletics in a night game in Philadelphia, 7-3.

Wynn Wins First
Early Wynn obtained from Washington in a winter trade, went the route for his first triumph with the Indians. He allowed six hits. A five-run fourth against Relief Pitcher Charlie Harris put the game on ice for Cleveland.

Randy Gumpert hurled a three-hitter against Washington as the Chicago White Sox whipped the Nats, 3-1. After Cass Michaels had led up the game with an eighth inning home run, the Sox batted twice in the ninth against Joe Haynes, to break the deadlock.

Singles by Rookies Gus Zernial and Jerry Seala brought in the winning runs. The triumph put the White Sox into third place, a game behind the Athletics.

Maxim Outpoints Gus Lesnevic

Cincinnati, May 24 (AP)—There's an old maxim that a steady drip of water will wear away the hardest stone.

And a Maxim proved that old maxim last night. Joey Maxim of Cleveland parlayed robust youth and a drop of water a flicking left hand—into the N.E.A. light heavyweight championship of America.

Joey, one of the lightest hitters in the business, used his raptor-like left to spear a decision in 15 rounds over 34-year-old Gus Lesnevic of Clifside, N. J., who last July 26 lost his world's title to Freddie Mills in England.

Promoter Sam Becker, Cincinnati clothier who puts on light shows as a hobby, found his in a costly battle in this, his biggest venture. Sam needed $100,000 to pay off—Lesnevic got $50,000 and Maxim $15,000—but only 6,931 fans braved the rain to pay a gross gate of $56,151.50, and a net of $40,429.08. That left Becker some $45,000 in the hole.

Lesnevic went out like a champion. He was unmarked, except for a slight bruise beside his left eye. He said he had no alibi, and that he lost because he couldn't keep his face away from Maxim's flicking left.

DiMag's Status Still a Mystery

New York, May 24 (AP)—The status of Joe Di Maggio today remained as uncertain as ever.

Nobody knows just when the famous corner of the New York Yankees will be able to play. Even Joe refuses to hazard a guess.

One thing is certain—he is not ready right now, not even for pinch hitting purposes.

The $90,000 slugger donned a uniform yesterday for the first time since he re-injured his ailing right heel last April 11. He engaged in a half hour's batting practice session. Then he shagged flies for 10 minutes. The net result—a handful of blisters and sore back muscles from swinging at too many pitches.

Because of that he will not take any hitting practice this afternoon. But he hopes to get in a little field practice.

Reserves Comment
Asked how he felt after his workout, the first in 41 days, he replied:

"Oh, all right, I guess. But I'll know better tomorrow. I didn't do much out there today, but it felt great getting back into a monkey suit. It feels so good having it on, I may not even take it off when I go to bed tonight."

Joe wore a spikeless shoe on his injured foot, with a protective sponge made of foam rubber. He said he felt no pain, but he didn't exert himself.

Manager Casey Stengel, who watched him throughout the workout, refused to venture an opinion.

The usual presentation of cash awards and trophies followed the delicious steak dinner. Music for dancing was furnished by Ray Randall and his orchestra.

Dewey Logan, vice-president, acted as master of ceremonies after being introduced by Evelyn Francis, president.

Individual trophies were presented to members of the Van Valkenburgh Insurance team, league champs. Members of the first place club included Marguerite Logan, Irene Peacor, Phyl Gehringer, Dewey Logan and John Sangi.

Other awards were as follows: Hudson Valley Diner, high series without handicap, 2782; DeLuca Cleaners, high game without handicap, 935; Minasian Liquor, high series with handicap, 2699; Van Valkenburgh Insurance, high game with handicap, 959.

Reta Frederick, high average for women, 161.97; Dick Howard, high average for men, 133.43; Phyl Gehringer, high triple, women, 544; Ralph Mayone, high triple, men, 626; Evelyn Francis, high single, women, 222; Jim Pruden, high single, men, 246.

Individual trophies also were presented to Gertrude Whalen and Gene Whalen for low triples rolled in the league.

During the presentations, tribute was paid to Reta Frederick of the Kingston Women's Bowling Association for her work in securing the 1950 state women's tournament for Kingston. Later, Mrs. Frederick, as chairman of the prize committee, presented individual gifts to Evelyn Francis, president; Dewey Logan, vice-president; John Lowe, treasurer; and Irvin J. Thomas, secretary.

John Sangi, alley proprietor, who waived on several prizes, was presented with a gift certificate. A money purse also was presented to J. P. Hayman, member of the loop.

Sponsors present at the affair were Mr. and Mrs. Joseph DeLuca, DeLuca Cleaners; Everett Van Kleeck, E. Van Kleeck and Son; Gordon Fitzgerald, representative of Van Valkenburgh Insurance; and George Morehead, Hudson Valley Diner.

High School's

turn every happiness in his years of retirement.

A completely new idea was tried this year in May Day when the pupils of William L. Hinchey exhibited their model airplanes. Wind currents, temperamental engines and battery rechargings are among the problems of the model airplane pilots. This morning, only one plane was in flying condition but that certainly gave the crowd an immense thrill as it swooped over the heads of the spectators and the Queen's court.

The plane was a mid-wing super dynamic model built by John Brodhead and flown with U-Control (guided by wires from the center of the flying circle). The planes fly at 40 to 50 miles an hour, make a loud hum from the tiny motor, and for a May Day program were an outstanding event.

The theme of the dances was American in nature. The Junior Leaders Club interpreted an adaptation from Martha Graham's "American Document." The only accompaniment was the beat of a drum and the reading of the story about the discovery and growth of America. This dance was climaxed by the winding of the May Pole.

Square Dances

Eighty M.J.M. Girls comprising 19 sets did several square dances in keeping with the American idea. Half were dressed to represent the boys in blue dungarees while their partners wore gray printed full skirts and blouses.

The Senior Leaders Club demonstrated marching techniques and made interesting patterns on the field for the spectators viewing the activities from the hill

In back of the school. Later the girls exhibited tumbling routines.

The M.J.M. Boys also gave tumbling routines which featured handstands, somersaults and the beginning of the pyramid routines. The Boys' Gym Club of the high school exhibited their skill in tumbling and the apparatus bars, doing solo routines as well as in ensemble.

The band under the direction of Martha Mowette played for a number of the acts and the twirlers from the band gave a demonstration. Prior to the May Day program, the band played a group of popular marches such as "Our Director," "Washington Post and The Thunderer."

Clowns Caper About

The entire proceedings were cleverly bound together this year by the antics of Jan Marasek and Joe Bosco, the clowns. They used the familiar firecracker act to start off their mischief. This was followed by imitations of the model airplanes, winding the May Pole, and interest in the Leader's Club girls as viewed through an over-extending newspaper telescope. They were rewarded with roses from the Queen's bouquet.

As is customary the queen presented roses from her bouquet to the captains of the athletic teams: William Kitzos, football; Lafayette Heston, basketball; John Weber, track; Mike Rizzo, baseball; Adolph Munson, cross country; Charles Lowery, tennis; and Leon Randall, golf.

Mrs. Ernest Ryan, Jr., girls' physical education instructor, and chairman of the May Day program, was called to the queen's throne and Roy Bolt, on behalf of the students, presented her with a nosegay of maroon and white carnations.

The queen and her court were dressed in the traditional Grecian style gowns. Miss Kirk wore the white queen's gown with long train and carried red roses; Miss Smith wore blue and carried yellow roses; the Misses Ewig and Hano wore pink; the Misses Rose and Scheffel, green; the Misses Ruffery and Ton Eyck, lavender. All of the attendants carried bouquets of pink roses and snapdragons. The train bearers wore white Grecian gowns trimmed with blue and pink ribbons and the crown bearer was dressed in white.

Roy Bolt, prime minister, who had the honor of placing the crown of red roses on Queen Jackie's head, spoke as follows:

Prime Minister's Speech

On this 24th day of May, 1949, the Senior Class of Kingston High School is proud to present its traditional May Day festival. As president of our Senior Class, I am proud to have the honor of acting as Prime Minister on this glorious May Day, and I bid each one of you a most hearty welcome.

Here at Kingston High, May Day is an old and revered custom, to which we all look forward with great anticipation. The entire school has been busy in preparation for this gala event: the band, the Leaders Club, and the Gym Club boys, who will perform — to mention only a few of the organizations, who will entertain for our Queen today.

As in former years, the fairest of all has been elected from the Senior Class to reign over the numerous festivities, as "Queen of the May." She is attended by a court of the most beautiful girls of the class who are also chosen by their classmates. The festivities which follow the coronation of the Queen are in tribute to the signal beauty of the Queen and her court.

During the years that we have celebrated May Day, many lovely queens have been chosen, but none has excelled our Queen, Miss Jacqueline Kirk, whom we believe is the fairest, most gracious and the loveliest of them all.

At this time it is indeed a pleasure to crown our queen, I now have the honor of crowning you, "Jackie Kirk," Queen of this May Day festival.

Queen's Speech

The Queen in reply said:

Prime Minister, fellow-students, and fellow citizens: It is indeed with profound happiness in my heart that I welcome you to Kingston High School's traditional observance in honor of spring.

May has been a month for re-

Kerhonkson Women To Hold Meeting

The Women's Christian Society of the Kerhonkson Federated Church will hold their monthly meeting in the Reformed Church May 31 at 2 p. m. instead of the regular meeting day.

At this time a one-net play, "The Voice of the Nations," will be presented. The cast includes Mesdames F. Sherman, G. Slater, G. Schwab, L. Brown, G. Quick, H. Schwab, A. Chipp, D. DePew, E. Schwab, P. Newkirk, G. Stockin, S. Devine, F. Gray, F. Osterhoudt.

Since the Women's Christian Society is the medium of the church through which the women of the congregation may express themselves, it is hoped that each woman will feel it her privilege and duty to become a member. Everyone in the community is cordially invited to attend the presentation of the "Voice of the Nations."

Offer to Arbitrate

United Auto Workers offered today to arbitrate their "local issue" in the Ford speed-up strike. Contingent then on settlement of "minor points," said the U.A.W. the strike idling 106,000 Ford workers would be ended. Whether the union move opened the gate to an early peace remained to be seen on the 20th day of the walk-out, however. Negotiations have been recessed since Sunday night.

Summer Schedule Begins

New York, May 24 (AP)—Major security and commodity exchanges start this week-end their summer schedules under which most of them will be closed each Saturday through September 24. The first week-end closings will be stretched to three days, since all domestic markets shut down Monday for the Memorial Day observance. Principal exceptions to the Saturday closings are the grain markets and some livestock markets, which will remain open for trading. Also staying open will be the New York Produce Exchange.

ancient Greek and Roman civilizations. At this time the gladness in our hearts longs for an outlet, a feeling provoked by the joy of gazing upon the magical forms brought by the warmth and sunshine of spring. You, dear witnesses, and many before you have proved this by your enthusiastic attendance.

To my senior classmates who so graciously bestowed this honor upon me, I wish to say with deep sincerity: thank you for this kindness which has made me extremely happy. It is you who have made my memories of Kingston High School so dear to me. I will always endeavor to live up to the standards which you have set for me by choosing me your queen.

I wish to thank my lovely maid-of-honor and attendants without whose charm and beauty these festivities would be deficient. In behalf of the class may I thank, also, the teachers who have worked so diligently to make this May Day a success and whose only satisfaction is the happiness it gives to others.

Now I extend to each one of you my wishes that you heartily enjoy with me these exercises which have been so willingly prepared for us. And may you, dear spring, accept this humble token of our re-awakened gratitude and zest for your fresh beauty.

Man Kills Wife, Orders His Son, 4, To End His Life

Mt. Pleasant, N. C., May 24 (AP)—A man shot his wife to death and then commanded his four-year-old son to fire a fatal bullet into his own heart. The act orphaned seven children.

The child told police: "I shot my daddy. Daddy shot mommy on the back porch. He carried her in the bedroom and asked me to shoot him."

Felton Lee Talbert, 37, killed his wife at her farm home near here yesterday with seven shots from a single loading .22-caliber rifle. Sheriff Ray C. Hoover said, The wife Carrie, 35, had been separated from her husband for four years.

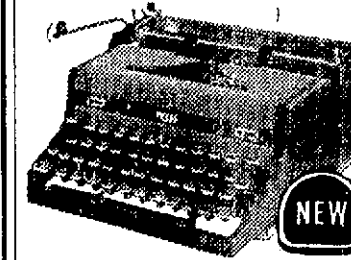

The husband was an odd job man. Mrs. Talbert was an unemployed textile worker. Sheriff Hoover said the child who shot his father was Doyle Talbert. His five-year-old sister, Judine, watched.

The other children are Billie Eugene, 13, a soldier in Japan; Roy Lee, 16; J. C., 14; and Janis, 8, who were in school, and Annelle, 5, who attends the North Carolina School for the Deaf.

Use of Tacks
Tips from the Insect Wire Screening Bureau advise householders who are repairing or replacing worn screens to use only copper tacks to fasten bronze screens to wood frames, and only steel or aluminum tacks to fasten aluminum screening. Chemical reactions of one metal on another will cause damaging corrosion if iron or steel tacks are used with bronze, or copper tacks with aluminum.

Milk Price Continuation Through June Forecast

Syracuse, N. Y., May 24 (AP)—Dairy industry sources predict the present class 1-A (fluid) milk price of $5.02 a hundredweight will continue through June.

Previously, they had foreseen a 22-cent drop in the producer price to $4.80 for June.

They said last night, however, predictions that the $5.02 price would continue were based on increased department store sales in Boston. These sales are a factor in determining the Boston milk price formula to which the New York milkshed price is tied.

The dairy sources said Boston department store sales last month climbed eight per cent above the May, 1948, figure. This they added, was sufficient to keep the wholesale milk price at the present $5.02 level.

Charles J. Blanford, New York milk marketing administrator, is expected to announce the New York June price tomorrow.

Living Index Is Again on Increase

Washington, May 24 (AP)—The government's cost of living index has shown another slight increase.

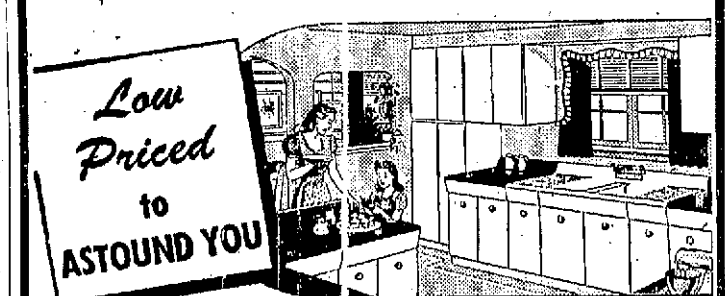

On April 15 the index of retail prices on goods and services purchased by moderate income families was at 169.7 per cent of the 1935-39 average—0.1 per cent above the index of March 15, the Bureau of Labor Statistics said yesterday.

That left the index about where it was on the same date in 1948. But it was 72.1 per cent above August, 1939, and 27.3 per cent above June, 1946, when most price controls were lifted.

The April figure represented the second monthly rise after a five-month decline.

Food prices, which play a major part in determining living costs, were up in 37 cities, dropped in 17 and remained unchanged in two. The retail food price index on April 15 was 2.5 per cent lower than it was a year ago, but 39 per cent above the June, 1946 level.
